Crashes In Area Injure 8 Persons

Girl, 5, Struck by Car; Two Hurt in Accident At Rte. 270 Overpass

Injuries were suffered by eight persons in seven of 28 traffic accidents occurring over the weekend in the Quad-Cities area.

Struck by an auto at 12:25 p.m. Saturday, Tina Marie Maykopet, five years old, daughter of James Maykopet, 1165 Kirkpatrick Homes, was treated at St. Elizabeth's Hospital and then transferred to Cardinal Glennon Hospital, St. Louis.

She suffered fractures of the jaw and right thigh; an incision laceration on the right side of the chin; a bruise on the right temple; bleeding about the mouth; and multiple abrasions.

The accident occurred at East 25th street and Nameoki road when she ran from behind an auto and into the path of another driven by Loreta Edith Robertson, 1705 Third street, Madison.

Two injured on Rt. 270

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Collop, Florissant, Mo., were injured at 1:20 a.m. Sunday when their westbound auto hit a stopped vehicle while crossing an Interstate Route 270 overpass three-tenths of a mile east of Illinois Route Three.

Collop, 45, who was driving, was treated at St. Elizabeth's Hospital for a cut on the upper lip. His wife, Elizabeth, 44, was admitted to the hospital with a deep abrasion to the front of the scalp, a contusion of the right arm and a right shoulder injury.

Milton D. Schmutzner, Stanton, had pulled onto the shoulder of the road due to car trouble, state police were told.

Collop applied the brakes of his car and it skidded into the halted vehicle, knocking it into a guard rail. Schmutzner's auto then bounced onto the pavement.

A three-car crash at 2:50 p.m. Friday at 20th street and Cleveland Blvd. injured Joyce L. Elkins, 27, of 2914 Roosevelt avenue. She was released after treatment at St. Elizabeth's Hospital for a pain in the forehead.

All the autos were headed east on 20th street and two had stopped for traffic.

The front of the Elkins car hit the rear of the auto of Harold G. James, East St. Louis, knocking that vehicle against the rear of the car of Thomas (Continued on page 23, col. 5)

Board Approves Revised Venice Student Plan

Plans were made by the Venice school board Friday to add nine permanent classrooms to Venice grade school, but they may not be ready by Jan. 19, it was noted. The Lincoln and Venice elementary schools are to be merged at any time.

Concluding that the bid call and construction time may extend past the target date, the board consulted with federal officials Thursday and revised its previous plan at a special meeting last Friday evening.

An alternate proposal approved Friday night provides that if the new rooms are not ready by the start of the spring semester Jan. 22, two grades of students will be assigned temporarily to Lincoln school.

These may be the sixth and seventh grades, but the decision has not yet been made.

Board members earlier last week had considered proceeding with the work on a time and material basis without bids but because of the bid call it would probably be illegal to do so.

Architect Virgil H. Dulgeroff estimates the project may not be completed until late February. Three classrooms are proposed on top of an existing one-story wing, and another six rooms are to be built at ground level, adjacent to the industrial area.

Bids may be sought by Nov. 1.

Under current plans, all pupils of the same grade within the district will attend the same building, effective with the second semester.

Property Tax Values Being Cut In GC Twp.

Local Assessor Says He Expects County To Get State Multiplier

Real estate tax assessments for all downtown business properties are being reduced by 40% and for all homes other than new ones by 10%, James Barton, Venetian City township tax assessor, announced today.

Regarding downtown business properties, Barton said the following decisions handed down by the county board of appeals which cut shopping center assessments at Eastgate in East Alton and the Bellemore and Nameoki Village shopping centers from $250 to $150 per front foot.

Barton, who noted a decline in the amount of business being conducted in the downtown district, said properties in downtown had been assessed at $300 per front foot but now will be set at $150.

He said that Eastgate first appealed its assessment, and when the board of review agreed, the two Granite City shopping centers followed suit and received reductions.

"In effect, the county board is telling me to cut the downtown assessments," Barton said. The total cut in dollars has yet to be determined, he said.

The Granite City township assessment rolls are to be published in the near future.

Barton said he anticipates a return to a multiplier system for Madison county to be set by the State Department of Revenue, and that a reduction in the assessment of homes is necessary to prevent an increase in taxes.

$616,830 U.S. Fund Grant for Hospital

Confirmation was received today by St. Elizabeth's Hospital for an added grant of federal funds, boosting the overall total for construction to $1,392,856.

Sister Mary Thomas, hospital administrator, said the latest federal grant of $616,830 under the new Hill-Burton Act — announced Friday at Springfield — includes $300,000 for extended care facilities, $61,048 for a diagnostic and treatment center, $194,793 for general hospital construction.

St. Elizabeth Hospital originally was awarded a $910,819 federal fund grant in 1966 and was by the city council would have been unenforceable. The city now has adopted rules and regulations identical to those of the state.

Asked to address the board, Mrs. Jean Francis, co-chairman Citizens for Clean Air, said she feels the state has refused the city council regarding air pollution and asked that there be a clarification.

Klassen attributed the Granite City air pollution issue to a "local disagreement."

World Series Brings Unusual Request

The World Series disrupts many activities—but it was an unusual request received yesterday at the admitting office at St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

A man who was scheduled to enter the hospital for treatment at 1 p.m. today telephoned and asked for a three-hour extension until 4 p.m. so he could stay home and watch today's ball game. Permission was granted.

As a special treat at the hospital yesterday, children in the pediatrics department were served popcorn to put them in the proper mood for watching the televised game. Dr. Felicia Koch, who is recuperating from surgery, commented as she watched the game that she was eating "Cepeda-chips."

Training Course For New Venice Police Discussed

A plan under which all new members of the Venice police force would be required to pass state-sponsored police training courses conducted by state police was discussed by the Venice city council in a regular meeting Friday night.

The suggestion came from Mayor John E. Lee and members of the council who recently attended the annual Illinois Municipal League convention in Springfield.

The convention included sessions on new police training schools now conducted at state universities. The schools are operated under new state legislation which refunds half the total cost of training an applicant to the municipality.

Alderman Lloyd Patterson, who reported on the training courses, noted that the periods of training vary, depending upon the subjects.

He said records show that improvement in police department efficiency has been apparent in every instance in which members of a police department have taken training.

Bids Next Spring on Broadway Underpass

Venice Seeking ICC Hearing on Request For 1970 Deadline

The Illinois state highway department plans to call for bids next spring on the Venice underpass project, but because of the "complexity of the work involved" does not anticipate completion of the structure until May 21, 1970, it was revealed at a regular meeting of the Venice city council Friday night.

Because, city officials reported, the state highway department has appealed to the Illinois Commerce Commission for a new order extending the deadline for the underpass construction to May 21, 1970—a period of two years and seven months from now.

The original ICC order, entered in October 1965 after a two-year hearing, called for completion of the project on Oct. 30, 1967—this year.

Because of the frequent delays in advancing the project to construction stage, the council accepted a suggestion by City Attorney Harry E. Hartman that the city of Venice file a petition with the ICC requesting a hearing on the highway department's plea for a time extension.

Get Own Provisions

Hartman told the council that "we might just as well see to it that the provisions of any new order suit us as well as they do the railroad."

Unless Venice intervened in the matter by formally petitioning for a hearing, it is probable that a time extension order would be granted by the ICC without discussion, Hartman said.

Notice that the highway department would seek a construction time extension was received by Venice city officials in a copy of the petition filed with the ICC by Ralph D. Brown Jr. of the Illinois Division of Highways at Springfield in behalf of Francis S. Lorenz, director of the Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings.

In notifying the ICC that it plans to call for construction bids "during the second quarter of 1968," the petition said, however, that the bid call is "contingent upon final ap-

Township Opposes 2nd School Site Annexation Bid

Nameoki township officials prepared Friday night to begin new annexation fight against Granite City—this time the proposed annexation of Maryville grade school.

The township, already has challenged in court the annexation by Granite City of the Grigsby junior high school site.

Members of the town board have said they will oppose by legal action every attempt to annex the school.

What is now Nameoki township property.

School officials of District Nine said Saturday that an annexation request for the Maryville school property has been filed with Granite City officials so that the school may obtain fire protection and other city services.

Town Board Member Herbert Polley brought up the Maryville annexation plan at the beginning of the township's regular meeting Friday night — postponed from Tuesday for lack of a quorum—and said he believed

Fists, Bottles Fly Near End of Firemen's Dance

Fights broke out near the close of an annual orchestra dance sponsored by Granite City firemen at 1 a.m. Sunday at the American Legion hall, 740 Broadway, Venice.

Many tables and chairs were overturned, and numerous bottles and glasses were thrown and broken. Fighting resumed after apparently ending twice. When police were called about 1:10 a.m., small teargas devices were used to quiet some of the gathering.

Patrolman Mervyn Langston of the Venice police department suffered a severely bruised left eye and was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital and at Carmichael Hospital, St. Louis. Extent of the injury is not yet known.

In connection with Langston's injury, Stanley Lucas Jr., 30, of 736 Ashland avenue, Mitchell, was arrested for assaulting a police officer, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Police used teargas and a club to subdue Lucas, who was lodged in the Venice jail and given a preliminary hearing at 5 a.m. Sunday conducted by Magistrate Andreas Matosian and attended by Assistant State's Attorney Larry Hartman. Bond was set at $24,000, and he posted it and was released at 6:15 a.m.

Witnesses said Granite City Mayor Donald Partney was a part of an early phase of the fight, striking a blow and being struck.

Hail Called a Wreck
Venice police, who obtained aid from Madison police, said most of the back half of the large hall was a "wreck" when they arrived. One man being held down by several others "settled down" after a squirt of gas and was taken out, police said. In another corner a fight broke up as the uniformed officers appeared. Partney was being held by a Granite City fireman and policeman when they

SIU Plans Floating Theater for Rivers

Gift of two barges to the Southern Illinois University Foundation, to be used for a floating theater during the Illinois sesquicentennial in 1968 and during SIU's centennial, which starts the following year, was announced at the Foundation's board meeting Thursday at Springfield.

Donor of the barges is A. L. Mechling Barge Lines, Joliet, and F. A. Mechling, executive vice-president.

Arrangements for the gift and its operation were worked out several weeks ago at a Springfield meeting between Mechling, State and SIU officials, it was reported by Kenneth R. Miller, Foundation executive director.

The two barges will be welded together to form a floating platform on which a fully equipped theater will be constructed. The SIU theater department will use the floating theater for presentation of touring plays up and down Illinois waterways.

On the same morning, D. L. Broyles, Route One, and Robert Sindlar, 2306 Lynch avenue, were charged with speeding at Nameoki road and Clark avenue. A speeding charge was filed at 5:30 p.m. Thursday in the 2900 block of State street against Orville Abel, 4117 Breckenridge lane.

arrived, Venice police said. Officers said they received extensive verbal abuse from a group critical of the mayor and from a fire department officer defending the mayor's role.

After the police succeeded in getting many of an estimated crowd of 450 to leave, a fight began outside the building between Lucas and a man who struck Lucas in the mouth.

Part of the remaining group left but Lucas declined to leave despite being "gassed" twice, police alleged.

Upon being told he was being arrested, he reportedly grabbed Officer Langston and the two fell over an iron railing, with Lucas on top and allegedly trying to gouge Langston's eye with a thumb.

Guest Artist Series Starts Nov. 1 at SIU-SW Campus

Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus Guest Artist Series at the new campus will open this year on Wednesday, Nov. 1, with the Greg Smith Singers, considered by music critics to be one of the finest choral groups in the country.

Other features of the 1967-68 series are the Lennox Quartet, a string ensemble which will play on Dec. 1; Alfons and Aloys Konarsky, duo-pianists from Germany, who will appear Jan. 18, 1968; William Flerens, South American classical guitarist, Feb. 16; and the Center for New Music in residence at the University of Iowa, April 5.

An admission policy is being adopted for the series this year, according to Prof. Edwin B. Warren of SIU-SW Fine Arts Division, "to help meet the rapidly advancing costs involved in presenting a series of high quality."

Prices for the season are $7.50 for the general public, $5 for SIU-SW students, faculty and staff, and $10 for patrons, whose support will be acknowledged on the programs. There are seats for 1,500 people in the series, single admissions at $2 each will be available, Warren said. Checks or money orders should be sent to Southern Illinois University, Fine Arts Division, Edwardsville, Ill., 62025.

No Agreement on Way to Schedule Pending Trials

Five different systems of setting civil trial cases were disputed among members of the Madison County Bar Association during a meeting with Chief Circuit Judge James D. Monroe at noon Friday at Edwardsville.

"They could not agree among themselves," said Judge Monroe, who has been under fire by the county bar group for changing a chronological order for setting trials in civil cases.

Among lawyers present were Lance Callis of Granite City, chairman of the county bar's judiciary committee. He had presented a critical report of the new policy, and the policy, which was accepted by the bar at a recent meeting.

Cites Delays by Lawyers

In an interview with a Press-Record reporter Friday afternoon, Judge Monroe said that it is the habit of most attorneys to respond with a "not ready" when their old cases are called.

This occurs even when cases are three or four years old, he added.

He asserted that last week 23 out of 29 major civil jury cases called for trial were announced by the lawyers as "not ready."

Effort to Save Time, Taxes

As a result, to prevent the waste of the time of the court, juries and tax funds, he decided to weave in more recent cases which were ready for trial, he related. It was this change that was assailed by the bar.

"Some lawyers, noting these defects, have asked that we set some more current cases, so that lawyers might be more prone to prepare, and so that we would not simply 'make old cases out of new ones,'" the judge said.

Judge Monroe said he was prepared previously to return to the chronological order of settings earlier this year under a local master calendar, the first of which he devised in 1961.

Criminal Precedes Civil

The judge told the Press-Record that some lawyers had complained that he was giving criminal trial settings preference over civil cases.

"I told them that the public interest must be served first and not special civil matters," which affect only a few," he said.

Judge Monroe, still aware of past criticisms of delays in disposing of criminal cases, was able to report that only 25 indictments are pending and that they are on next Monday's criminal court setting. He added that 14 additional cases involved fugitives.

Says Bar Excludes Judges

In the past year, Judge Monroe indicated that the courts have disposed of 10 times the number of criminal cases as those currently pending.

The judges said that he is being called uncommunicative. But he said that he was unaware of any county bar meeting concerning civil case trials, which has been used extensively for church financing throughout the country. In the past 29 years, thousands of churches of many denominations in 45 states and Canada have financed building programs in this way.

Canal Freight Headed for Seasonal Drop; Total Up

A total of 3,731,015 tons of commercial freight shipped through the locks of the Chain of Rocks canal during September, a decrease of 457,650 tons below total August shipments, was 367,355 tons more than September shipments a year ago, according to a report by the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers which operates the canal locks.

The shipments increased to 31,984,560 tons the total amount of freight passing through the locks during the nine months of this year, or 2,219,813 tons more than the aggregate of 29,764,747 tons for the same period last year. Freight shipments through the canal have been increasing annually at a rate of about 10% since the locks were placed in operation 14 years ago.

An all-time record shipment for any single month was established in July this year when freight passing upriver and downriver through the canal amounted to 4,417,515 tons. If they follow the usual pattern, freight shipments will go into a seasonal decline through the approaching winter months.

Shipments during September included petroleum products, 547,000 tons upriver and 347,350 tons downriver; grain, 9100 tons up and 1,176,730 tons down; coal, 755,700 up and 1300 down; cement, sand and gravel, 8180 up and 36,400 down; sulphur, 48,900 up and none down; miscellaneous commodities, 345,760 up and 55,075 down; iron and steel products, 7700 up and 87,000 down; chemicals, 219,250 up and 46,850 down.

A total of 3175 vessels passed through the locks during the month, according to the report. These included 859 commercial towboats and 3886 commercial barges. Eleven government towboats and 26 government barges also passed through the canal.

Other vessels moving through the canal during September included ten small craft, seven passenger boats, 357 private recreation boats, six government craft and 13 government patrol boats.

The report noted that traffic during the past month increased to 44,258 the total number of vessels using the locks so far this year, compared to 42,215 in a like period of 1966.

A total of 1036 lockages were made during September, compared to 897 during the same month a year ago. These bring to 8365 the total for the nine months of this year, compared to 7510 in the same period of 1966.

AUTUMN BRIDE. Mrs. Joseph J. Mangiaracino, who was married Saturday at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church. A daughter of Mrs. Betty Sneed, 1411 Norwood drive, is the former Jaclyn Sneed.

Miss JacLynn Sneed and Jos. Mangiaracino are Wed

St. Elizabeth Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding Saturday morning of Miss JacLynn Sneed, a daughter of Mrs. Betty Sneed, 1411 Norwood drive, and Joseph J. Mangiaracino, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mangiaracino, 2132 Amos avenue.

Rev. Lawrence Mattingly heard the vows of the couple at 10 o'clock, and the wedding breakfast was held in the Red Room of the Travelodge. Friends and relatives of the couple attended a reception in the evening at the VFW hall.

Mrs. Margaret Crenshaw, organist, accompanied Howard Mason, the vocalist, as he sang "O Perfect Love," "Ave Maria" and "Mother At Thy Feet We're Kneeling."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Gary Sneed. She wore a fitted sheath gown of peau de soie with a cage of floating silk organza. Hand-clipped appliques of Venice lace trimmed the bottom of the skirt, the neckline and the long tapered sleeves.

A high floral headdress held in place a bouffant cathedral-length veil complemented with two smaller circles with appliques of lace matching that on the dress.

The bride carried a cascade arrangement of orchids and greenery on a white Bible. Miss Christine Daugherty, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Joette Siglock and Miss Darla Sneed, sisters of the bride, Miss Beverly Branding, Mrs. Pam Parkinson, Miss Linda Harris and Mrs. Rosemary Pabst, were dressed in identical gowns of permaison pearl de sole with Empire waistlines and A-line skirts trimmed with braid and tassels in the same color.

Headpieces were made of variegated illusion. Each one carried a single large peach colored glabella with greenery.

The church was decorated with peach gladiolus and white brads with brass urns holding greenery.

Paul Strain was best man, and Mary Siglock, Bob Hart, Tom Slecko, Lee Neubauer, Jr. Pabst, Kenneth O'Neill, Warren Richter and Jack Reuber served as groomsmen and ushers.

A little flower girl, Laura Heidenreich, dressed like the older girls, carried a basket of rose petals. Gary Goeffert served as ring bearer.

Mrs. Sneed, the bride's mother, chose a beige crepe sheath dress, a brown lace coat and a corsage of snowdrift and peach pom poms. The bridegroom's mother was in an apple green crepe sheath and a matching lace jacket. Her flowers were snowdrift and mint green pom poms.

After a week's stay at Kentucky Lake the couple will reside at 2829 Warren avenue.

Both young people are graduates of Granite City high school and Mr. Mangiaracino is employed by Missouri Pacific Railroad in St. Louis. The former Miss Sneed is employed in the credit office of the W. T. Grant Co. store.

Miss Lowe, Coram J. Davis Exchange Wedding Vows

The wedding of Miss Elberta Lowe, a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Raymond S. Lowe, 1715 Edison avenue, and Coram J. Davis, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Coram Davis of East St. Louis, took place Friday evening at Trinity Pentecostal Church of God in East St. Louis.

Candlelight and white flowers provided the setting for the 8 o'clock ceremony at which the Rev. Charles Jeris officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white bouquet tulle with a V-neckline embellished with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Long tapered sleeves were set into the bodice fastened down the back with covered buttons. The bodice featured lace and jeweled motifs and a bustle back terminating in a chapel train.

The bride's bouquet was made up of carnations centered with an orchid on which the bride's veil was held in place with a crown of pearls.

Jerry Malone, organist, accompanied the vocalist, David Bradford, a cousin of the bride, as he sang "Because," the Lord's Prayer, and "Hawaiian Wedding Song."

The attendants were Miss Mary Lowe, a sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and a cousin, Miss Donna Jones, bridesmaid. They were dressed in ankle-length gowns, the honor attendant in pink and Miss Jones in aqua. Headpieces and nose veils matched the gowns and they carried carnations tinted the same colors.

A little flower girl, Becky Lavy, a niece of the bride, wore a dress with a white bodice, a paneled skirt of pink, blue and yellow and a headband of tulle. Robert Olive, the bridegroom's nephew, served as ring bearer.

Lloyd Davis was best man for his brother, and groomsmen and ushers included Curtis Gillespie, brother-in-law of the groom, Elvin James and William Scott.

A reception was held in the church hall immediately following the ceremony and the couple left for a trip to an undisclosed destination. When they will live at 1715a Edison avenue.

The former Miss Lowe, a graduate of Granite City high school, was formerly employed in St. Louis. Mr. Davis is employed by Pennsylvania Railroad Co. He is a graduate of an East St. Louis high school.

Miss Nona Gene Hobbs and Robt. King Wed Saturday

Of interest locally was the marriage Saturday at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Manchester, Mo., of Miss Nona Gene Hobbs, and Robert Patrick King, both of Manchester. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hobbs, formerly of Granite City, and John T. King, and the late Mrs. Eleanor King of Manchester.

Rev. Joseph B. Winter officiated at the 6 p.m. ceremony, and a reception was held afterward at the Creve Coeur Country Club.

The bride chose a gown of ivory peau de soie and peau de ange lace. The bodice of lace had elbow sleeves and a scoop neckline, and the A-line skirt, bordered with lace, featured a removable Watteau train completely encircled with lace. An open pill box covered with matching lace held in place the bride's elbow-length silk illusion veil with tiny seed pearls scattered throughout. She carried a cascade arrangement of stephanotis and carnations centered with phalaenopsis orchids.

Miss Donna Hobbs was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Judi Spurrier and Miss Jeanie Little of Granite City, and Miss Mary King of Manchester, a sister of the bridegroom.

The attendants were dressed alike in gowns with moss green straight floor-length skirts and ivory lace Empire bodices. The necklines were rounded and the sleeves were elbow-length. Natural ivy leaves formed their headpieces and they held nosegays of rust and yellow poms with green streamers.

ROMPING TO VICTORY by a 25-6 score over Triad here Friday night, Madison Trojan ball carriers are shown in action during three stages of the Midwestern Conference game.

Williams, a 155-pound junior. Three Triad tacklers combine forces to bring him down. Madison players visible are No. 10, Halfback Willie Ackers, and No. 81, End Ed Hilton.

Brake, a 150-pound senior halfback. Two enemy players attempt to halt his forward progress while a third approaches to lend a hand.

In the scene at the right, pursued by four Triad Knights, Bast (30), Smedley (72), Reding (32), and Sedlacek (42). Trojans include Tom Weston (55) and Terry Brake (12).

Balanced Attack in 4th Straight Madison Win, 25-6 Over Triad

The unbeaten Madison high school football Trojans recorded their fourth win in a row and their second Midwestern Conference victory as they defeated Triad 25-6 at the Madison field before an estimated crowd of 800 fans Friday night.

Triad, the newest member of the conference, was no match for the Trojan offense. The visitors found themselves continuously deep in their own territory.

Madison played principally a ground game against the Knights, totaling 348 rushing yards and only 10 yards from passing, giving the Trojans a record high for the year of 338 total yards.

In comparison, Triad rushed for 164 yards and gained 14 yards in the air as it totaled 178 yards.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD
Page 6 Mon., Oct. 9, 1967

Test of Ground Game
Coach Harland Schiebel said,

"In this game, we tried to see how effective our ground game really was. It really sparked; Jim Scott kept them moving down the field."

"Our problem this week was a poor defensive effort. The boys started off a little lazy, and found themselves in trouble, with Triad pushing us toward our goal line."

Opening Friday's game, Madison kicked off to the Knights, who ran the ball back to their 37.

Jim Bast found a hole in the Madison defense on the second play and broke tackle after tackle to drive for 15 yards.

Triad moved the ball to the Madison 42 but was forced to punt. The Trojans then punned and Bill Huston ran the ball back to the Madison 40-yard line. However, Triad again had to kick.

Gains by Ship, Weston
From the 20, Fullback Ship picked up 12 yards around end and then eight more.

Tom Weston picked up ten yards but, with the ball at mid-field, Madison was held.

With two minutes left in the quarter, Triad was unable to penetrate the Madison defense and kicked to the Trojan 45.

The first Trojan scoring drive started from here. The line of scrimmage had reached the Madison 49 when the second period began.

Halfback Terry Brake scampored 30 yards and Dale Clinton went off right tackle twice, gaining a total of 13 yards to put the ball on the six-yard line.

Touchdown by Clinton
Trying the left side of the line, he earned two yards. Jim Scott faked a handoff to Brake and gave the ball to Dale Clinton, who went over for the touchdown. A kick for the extra point failed.

No other scoring occurred in the first half but Triad got as close as the Madison six-yard line.

In the third quarter, Madison and Triad battled for field position.

Receiving for the second time in the quarter, Madison began a drive on the Triad 37 as Dan Williams returned a punt 13 yards.

Trade Third Period TD's
It was Ship all the way as he picked up six yards, two, eight, 12 and a final nine yards around the left side of the line.

The score became 13-0 with the extra point kick by Harold James.

It wasn't a shutout for long, though. On the kickoff, Jim Bast ran the ball for a 70-yard return and Triad's only TD of the night, the team's second of the season.

Ahead 13-6, Madison threatened late in the third period as Scott ran the kickoff back to the Triad 39. The Trojans moved on the ground to the 15 and a penalty nullified an apparent TD pass to Weston.

36-Yard, 29-Yard Runs
The Trojans still had possession, on the Triad 32, as the fourth quarter began.

Joe Collins ran into the end zone on a play called back due to a clipping penalty, and then sprinted 30 yards for a touchdown.

Holding Triad, Madison again met with success. Scott carried for 11 yards, Ship for three, Brake for seven, Williams for seven and Brake for two, setting the stage for a 29-yard scoring jaunt by Ship.

Registrations still open for senior life saving classes.

First class starts Wed., Oct. 11, 7:30 P.M. and Judo classes register now.

First class Thurs., 7 P.M. At the Granite City YMCA, 20th and Edison Ave.

SIU-SW Ready to Begin Intercollegiate Play

Southern Illinois University's southwestern campus will begin intercollegiate sports competition Wednesday with a soccer game at Blackburn College in Carlinville.

Six additional games have been scheduled for the first season.

The move to compete in soccer follows by two weeks the informal decision of the University's Board of Trustees to allow the start of intercollegiate sport was given last week.

Approval of the selection of soccer as the first intercollegiate sport was given last week by Robert W. MacVicar, SIU vice-president of academic affairs. Other sports may be added to the intercollegiate program in the future.

Intercollegiate athletics at the southwestern campus will be administered by the Division of Education, with supervision from the faculty of health, recreation and physical education.

Robert M. Guelker, coach of the SIU soccer team, said the schedule "will be the base upon which we hope to build a significant intercollegiate program."

A former coach at St. Louis University, Guelker will start with a squad of 20 men, many of whom live in the metropolitan area, where the soccer coach won five NCAA national championships in eight years.

At the present time the Cougars will have no conference affiliation.

The first home soccer contest will be Oct. 25 when SIU-

SW meets Harris Teachers College of St. Louis.

Coolidge Gridders Chalk Up 32-0 Win

Coolidge junior high school won its third straight football game Thursday afternoon as it defeated North of Collinsville 32-0 at Collinsville.

Coach John Toncoff said his team played "hard hitting football." He noted that each time Coolidge was faced with a fourth down situation, Joe Wallace made a long punt and the tacklers were able to drop opposing ball carriers deep in their own territory. He also kicked extra points.

Coolidge hit the goal line only 12 plays into the first quarter as Ned Tapp went across on a three-yard plunge.

Don Harris hit Ken Gauen late in the second quarter for the second touchdown on a 25-yard pass play.

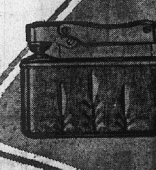

Tom Mitchell made a TD in the third quarter on a four-yard drive and late in the same quarter Harris kept the ball for a six-point quarterback sneak. In the final period, Mike Adams scored on a pass interception.

Warriors Battered 54-0 in Scary Pre-Halloween Visit to Alton

Halloween arrived early for the GCHS football Warriors, who found themselves in the middle of the witches' cauldron and on the short end of a 54-0 score at Alton Friday night.

The Redbird gridiron have been striking terror into the hearts of all teams in this region, and Granite City found out the hard way that it was not up against ghosts or goblins that merely dissolved or evaporate on contact.

The contact was real enough, and so were the eight touchdowns chalked up by the host team, now a top-heavy favorite in the Southwestern Conference.

Treating the Alton fans to a Halloween-style parade up and down the field almost every time, the Warriors proved it was not trick. They used a solid ground attack aided immensely by the presence of huge backfield men and even more gargantuan linemen.

Holmes, Wallace Too Much What happened? Well, Frank Holmes, 202-pound Alton fullback, gave his team a 7-0 first quarter lead with a three-yard TD run. Another 26 points went up on the scoreboard in the second period for a 35-0 final time lead as Tom Pendt ran for 11 yards, Wayne Schroeder pulled down a 39-yard pass from Quarterback Mike Crivel lo, Clarence Willis ran back a pass intercepting 35 yards and 170-pound Halfback Avery Wallace plunged for two yards.

In the third period, Holmes ran for 72 yards and Lawrence Bosaw sprinted for 20 yards and a 47-0 advantage. Bob Joeli powered over from three yards out in the final quarter. Sonny Willis kicked six extra points.

Holmes gained 95 yards in eight tries and Wallace earned 47 yards in nine carries. Both are being touted for all-state honors.

Alton scored 342 yards—283 rushing and 59 on three completions out of six passes. GCHS ran for 60 yards, while gained 19 yards on six of 11 passes.

Tyler, Anderson Alert Each team had one pass interception and lost one fumble, John Tyler snatching the enemy pass and Dave Anderson recovering the Alton fumble.

The Warriors trailed 14-6 in the first downs and were penalized 20 yards to Alton's 45. GCHS punted seven times for an average of 28 yards, while the Redbirds never found it necessary to punt.

Granite City never was able to penetrate beyond the Alton 40-yard-line as Alton displayed a combined offense and defense that a member of the GCHS coaching staff called "fantastic for a high school team."

Runbacks Decline Long runbacks of punts kept the Warriors constantly in the hot water; the Redbirds usually began their touchdown marches from the Warrior half of the gridiron. They netted 165 yards in five runbacks.

The Warriors, who will host Wood River for another league game Friday night, were paced at Alton by Ron Laws' 25 yards in nine runs; Mike Bradford's 23 yards in nine tries and Mike Pekarik's ten yards in three carries.

Roger Deiste completed four of seven passes and Dave Shelton two of four. Jim McCart caught two passes and Ralph Borsh, Ron Laws, Mike Pekarik and Roger Laws one each.

500 Attend Soccer League Clinic Here

Fundamentals were stressed as a clinic of the YMCA soccer league Saturday morning at St. Elizabeth school.

Bob Kehoo explained films to the boys and their parents. Members of the St. Louis Stars performed and signed autographs. Game strategy was shown against boys who will play on the GCHS team this year.

Ruben Mendoza, soccer director, estimated that 500 people saw the program. The emphasis was on passing, ball handling, heading and trapping. A later clinic also is to be held.

Warriors Outrun Assumption

Victorious for a sixth time in eight meets the Granite City high school cross-country team beat Assumption 22½-33½, at the course in Jones Park, East St. Louis.

Winning for Granite City was Mike Burris in 10:10. This was the first time that a Warrior runner has placed first at a meet this year, the team usually winning on points due to the close bunching of its top seven or eight runners.

A dead heat for second place occurred between Richard Hull of Granite City and Mike Hulka of Assumption; both finished in 10:13.

Gary Oxford was fourth in 10:25; Mike Walzer, sixth in 10:26; Ricky Rose, ninth in 10:34; Steve Harris, tenth in 10:35; Tom Niebur, 12th in 10:37; and Ralph Rojas, 13th in 10:42.

"I am well pleased with the boys' performance so far this year," Coach Dick Harmon commented. "We've worked hard for the victories we are getting. In our next meet on Friday, the Beaumont Invitational, I expect that we may finish somewhere around the middle of the 30 schools from Missouri and Illinois competing."

Lectures on Government Agencies Set at SIU-SW

Both federal representatives and officials of Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus are enthusiastic about the lecture series on government agencies beginning this fall at the local campus.

"We are elated with the program," says Dean Pieper, special assistant to the regional administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development at Chicago. "It will be the first time a university has collaborated with the federal government."

Pieper, whose agency is co-operating with the university on the pilot project, was at the campus last week for consultations with SIU-SW officials. One of his objectives was to confirm regional and national HUD officials who will conduct the 14 lectures.

Started to begin Oct. 17, classes will meet about every two weeks through May 7. The instruction will be directed primarily at local government officials who misunderstand or remain unfamiliar with federal operations. It also has a secondary aim, orienting students and other interested persons.

Pieper quoted Francis D.

Fisher, regional administrator of HUD, as saying, his organization was "delighted to bring to students and local municipal officials an insight of functions and responsibilities of federal agencies."

He said Fisher hoped the series will stimulate both interest and participation in day-to-day governmental operations, as well as provoke inquiry into various programs, especially HUD's.

Officially called Lecture Series in Social Science, the program is open to both graduate and undergraduate students, municipal officials and employees and others at no cost. One to three hours of academic credit is available through application.

Some areas to be covered in the series are civil rights, housing, model neighborhoods, labor relations, voter concern for federal programs, organizational structure of agencies, public relations, metropolitan development and community renewal.

Pieper is scheduled to speak at two sessions next spring on the concern of voters for federal programs. Four other speakers will be from HUD's Washington office and the remaining eight will come from the regional office at Chicago.

Mevin E. Kazek, chairman

of the earth sciences faculty and one of the program planners, said the lectures should provide an opportunity for local citizens to both hear and meet government leaders who must face the critical problems of our rapidly-urbanizing society.

Norman Johnsen, coordinator of university relations and another planner of the series, said the classes would also encourage graduating students to enter government as a career.

Former Metropolitan and Paris Opera star Marjorie Lawrence is director of opera productions for the music department at Southern Illinois University.

Traineeship Awards
Christy Heinz, 2200 Glen drive, and Mary Hodges, 530 Mercedia street, Madison, students at the Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus, have received state traineeship awards for undergraduates studying the mentally retarded. They are majoring in special education.

Police Give Tips on How To Prevent Auto Thefts

There has been a 13% increase in the number of stolen automobiles during the first half of 1967, according to Granite City police Sgt. Everett Kelly who has returned from a three-day conference on auto thefts held at Springfield.

In 1966 there were 457,000 automobiles stolen, and it is established that a car is being stolen every 37 seconds somewhere in the U. S.

The rate continues to climb in Granite City. There were 238 auto thefts in 1966, an increase over 1965, and for the first nine months this year, 200 cars were stolen.

In 40% of all auto thefts the keys had been left in the car by the owner, Kelly said, thereby helping the thief to steal it. "When leaving your car, always lock it up even if you are going into the corner drug store for a small purchase," he advised.

"Do not leave expensive items laying in open view inside your car. Always place them in the trunk and don't do this at the same location you are planning to park the car as a thief may be watching."

Prevalent at Christmas

He noted that this is especially true around the Christmas holidays when theft from automobiles is prevalent. "Write your name, address and vehicle identification number on several pieces of paper and place them in inconspicuous places in your car for future identification in case your car is stolen, as the license and identification plates can be removed," Kelly said. The ID plate generally is located near the left front door post.

One auto theft ring, when discovered in Peoria, had stripped more than 100 stolen cars, and in many of the cases only the bulk of the car remained, he said. In many cases it was possible to identify the car as all identifiable numbers had been removed.

Pertinent Information
Be prepared to give local police all pertinent information when reporting a stolen car such as color, year, make, body style and the ID number and any unusual features about the car. Local police must have the ID number before placing an all-points bulletin out to other departments. The number is listed on the registration card which is provided with the state license plates.

Kelly said there are several specialized agencies which are at the disposal of local departments to assist in recovering stolen cars, such as the National Auto Theft Bureau which maintains a complete list of all stolen cars throughout the U. S.

It is ready to relay information back to the inquiring department within minutes as to the status of a vehicle. The vehicle investigation section of the Illinois state police primarily investigates auto theft rings operating in the state.

Kelly advised that anyone seen prowling around an auto be reported immediately, as many theft rings have been uncovered by the arrest of one thief.

A professional thief can enter a car and have it moving in three minutes, so time is important, he said.

Special Recognition For S/Sgt. Jones

Staff Sergeant Carroll Jones, brother of Cynthia and Sharon Jones of 1104 Market street, Madison, has been recognized for helping his unit win the title of "best transportation squad" in the U. S. Air Force.

Sgt. Jones, a vehicle dispatcher, serves with the 460th Transportation Squadron, Ent AFB, Colo. The unit was cited for its outstanding achievements during the past year. The 460th provides transportation services for the Ent AFB complex, which includes the headquarters of the U. S.-Canadian North American Air Defense Command and the USAF Air Defense Command.

He is a graduate of Lincoln high school, East St. Louis. His wife is the former Eva F. Clark.

State Emergency Plan Citation to Townsend

C. E. Townsend, editor and publisher of the Press-Record, has just received a citation for "outstanding public service" recognizing his role in developing the Illinois State Plan for Emergency Management of Resources.

The citation was signed by Farris Bryant, director of the Office of Emergency Planning in the Executive Office of the President in Washington. It was accompanied by letters from Bryant, Gov. Otto Kern and Fred H. Wolke, director of Illinois Office of Emergency Planning.

The state plan has been accepted by the federal government, and Gov. Kern has directed each state department and agency to study it and be prepared to follow the responsibilities outlined in the event of an enemy nuclear attack.

Goal of the plan is to enable communities, regions and the state to maintain vital services, stabilize economic activities and effectively manage resources during a nuclear emergency.

Pollution Control to Be Topic of Meeting

The Illinois Society of Professional Engineers will hold a public meeting on pollution control in the state at 4 p.m. Friday at the Sunset Hill Holiday Inn.

Topics will cover the sources of pollution, legal remedies, cost regulations and future outlook. Also to be discussed is a referendum to be submitted to Illinois voters in 1969 calling for a $1 billion bond issue to control pollution and conserve water supplies.

Speakers will include Clarence W. Klassen, chief sanitary engineer of the Illinois Department of Public Health; Eugene Graves, director of the Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development; and representatives of the U. S. Department of Interior and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The dinner speaker will be Paul B. Hodges of the Monsanto Chemical Co., industrial management representative on the Illinois Air Pollution Control Board.

What's the cost of a good college education?

Plenty! If your child is deprived of one. Or if you have not prepared sufficiently to pay for one. Or if you are not on the scene to make sure your child has the money for college. Life insurance can guarantee that your child has the money to go to college, whether you are here or not. And, by starting now, when your children are young, the cost of education in later years will not pinch you financially. Choose a program on your life in an amount sufficient to pay the way to opportunity for your children. Call...

Drinking Pedestrians Also Cause Accidents

Drinking and driving are well-known mortality factors. Drinking and walking "fatalities" are something else again. Dr. Norman S. Rose, chief of the Bureau of Hazardous Substances and Poison Control for the Illinois Department of Public Health, has found that of pedestrians killed by cars in Illinois in one year, 42% had measurable amounts of alcohol in their blood.

"During the test year in Illinois (1966) 47 of the dead drivers given blood tests were in the 15-to-20-year-old group... mostly teenagers," Dr. Rose said.

"Fully one-third of these young drivers (33%) had measurable blood-alcohol levels. One-half had blood-alcohol levels over 0.15%." The rate of young victims who were occupants in auto fatalities was even higher, 38% having measurable levels."

Tumbling-Gymnastic Classes in Progress

Granite City youngsters interested in learning tumbling and gymnastic skills, or in progressing into more advanced instruction in the same area, still may enroll in the park district's fall program. It was announced today by Park Supt. Harold E. Brown.

Recently initiated for the fourth season, the gymnastic-tumbling program is open to all grad and high school students and includes two beginner's classes, plus an intermediate and advanced course. Beginner classes are being held from 6 to 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday at Nedringhaus school, and from 4 to 5:30 p.m. on Thursdays at Frohardt school.

Intermediate students can attend classes from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. each Monday and Thursday, while the advanced group meets for instruction the same evenings from 7:30 to 8:30. Both the intermediate and advanced sessions are being conducted at the park district Community Center, 822 Nedringhaus avenue.

No fee is charged for the classes, but all participants must be covered by the park district's insurance plan, costing $1 per year, Brown said.

U.S. Suspends Venice Grocer in Coupon Plan

Jenkins's Grocery at 925 Bissell street, Venice, and the store's owner, James S. Jenkins, have been disqualified from the Food Stamp program for violating program regulations, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced Friday.

Officials said the violations included acceptance of food coupons in exchange for ineligible items; giving credit allowances in excess of the allowable 40 cents in food coupon transactions; acceptance of loose 2-cent coupons in food transactions; giving cash as exchange for coupon transactions; and acceptance of food stamp coupons in exchange for cash.

The suspension makes the store ineligible to accept food stamp coupons for a period of six months. The suspension is authorized in the program may be submitted after that time.

Possibility of civil or criminal action in the courts under federal statutes, or the filing of fiscal claims against the retailer is not precluded, officials added.

Among duties assumed by the volunteers is that of determining those in need of treatment or counseling of mental health facilities that are available within the area.

Senator Simon has been a strong supporter of the mental health program.

'Yule Mail Call' List Continuing to Grow

An airman in Japan, facing his first Christmas away from home—a medic confronted with his second Yuletide on duty in the Philippine Islands—has two pairs of brothers now serving with the Armed Forces are among the Quadrant City servicemen whose names and addresses appear in today's "Yule Mail Call" list.

Additional lists will be published as names and addresses of military personnel are received by the Press-Record. It is suggested that readers clip-out and retain the lists as they appear, adding the servicemen to their Christmas mailing lists.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Byrne, 3213 Aubrey avenue, in submitting the name of their son, Airman Second Class John Byrne, commented, "Like many other boys, this will be his first Christmas away from home."

Any mail will be appreciated by Airman Second Class Eddie G. Mathis, who is serving as a medic in the Philippine Islands, according to Mrs. Hazel Mathis, 3249 Carlson avenue, who added, "Eddie has been there since last December and is expected to remain in the Philippines until next June."

Two Holtgrave brothers, listed in today's edition of "Yule Mail Call," were sent in by their mother, Mrs. Rose Mary Holtgrave, 2429 Washington avenue.

Army Specialist Five David Holtgrave is stationed at Fort Hood, Tex., while his brother, Airman First Class Thomas Holtgrave is on duty with the 36th Air Police Squadron at Bitburg Air Base in Germany.

Two other brothers, Specialist Fourth Alan T. Scharf, Btry. C, 4th Bn. (Herc.) 4th Arty., and E-3 Robert G. Scharf, 21st, also included on the list, are based at a Hercules missile installation near Kingston, Wash.

Both volunteered for Army duty, although at different times, and requested assignment to the same area. They are the sons of Mrs. William H. Scharf, 2922 Palmer avenue, who commented, "I've known of guns, stolen from the car or shack, guns accidentally dropped in the lake, damaged against a rock, or burned up in a fire. Can I get insurance on my guns and equipment against any kind of loss or damage?"

Square Dance Classes Begin at Area Schools

Granite City park district's tenth annual square dance program for students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades begins this week at three area schools and will continue until March. It was announced today by Harold E. Brown, park superintendent.

The initial session starts this evening at Namooki school gymnasium, with classes tomorrow at the new Parkview school, and on Thursday at Nedringhaus school. All three weekly sessions will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Mrs. Helen Bjorkman, who is supervising the square dance program again this season, said today that boys and girls are being encouraged to join in classes conducted at the school nearest their own homes.

The square dance instruction series is free to park district residents and also available for a $3 non-resident fee. Participants are required to be protected under the park district's $1 per-year insurance plan, if they have not already purchased the coverage in earlier programs this year.

Last season, more than 350 public and parochial students attended the lessons, which are climaxed with the "Winter Carnival" public showing.

The Prather junior high school student was knocked down while crossing East Chain of Rocks road, near Maryville road, enroute to his home.

Death caused by a fractured skull and internal injuries was cited in the inquest involving Airman Third Class Philip E. Wroten, 18, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wroten, 1610 Spruce street. Math Workshop Set At Louis Baer School

An eight-week workshop on mathematics is scheduled to open next Monday night in Room 8 of the Louis Baer school, Rhodes street and McCambridge avenue, Madison, it was announced by Wilbur Trimpe, Madison county superintendent of schools.

The workshop sessions will be held each Monday night from 7 to 9 p.m. for eight weeks and are planned primarily for teachers from kindergarten through the eighth grade, although all others are welcome, Trimpe announced. James Noth will be instructor at the classes.

The program is planned to provide an overview of the "modern approach" to fundamental concepts of mathematics, to provide teachers with background materials, to suggest ways to integrate these concepts into the overall program, and to insure continuity and closer articulation of curriculum between grade levels.

The workshop does not carry college credit but a certificate will be awarded upon termination of the workshop program.

Brothers Enter Pleas On Venice Charges

Johnny Williams, 22, of 183 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge in Magistrate Matosian's court in Granite City Thursday. He was fined $15 and costs. Venice police said Williams then was turned over to St. Louis Army officials to answer charges of being AWOL.

At the same time, Tommy Lee Williams, 21, brother of Johnny Williams, pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon—a knife—but not guilty to charges of speeding, escape from a police officer and driving without a driver's license. Venice police said he was taken to the county jail to await trial.

The brothers were arrested by Madison police last week at the Madison Recreation Center and turned over to Venice police on warrants issued last July. The two men were held in separate cases, police said. Tommy Williams was fined $15 and costs on the weapon charge.

Forest Trees on Strip-Mine Land Studied by SIU Prof.

Forest trees planted on the undisturbed spoil banks of a strip-mined land generally grow faster and live longer than trees planted on spoil area which is graded level, as shown in a recently-completed study conducted by A. G. Chapman, Southern Illinois University adjunct professor of forestry.

Chapman's conclusions, based on records of hardwood and conifer trees planted in 1946 and 1947 on stripped land in Illinois, Ohio, Missouri and Kansas, are summarized in a recent issue of "Agriculture at Southern," a bimonthly publication of the SIU School of Agriculture at Carbondale.

Chapman found that strip-mined land containing more than 15% clay is adversely affected when leveled. Grading machinery compacts the soil considerably, he explained.

Compaction blocks pore spaces necessary for movement of air, water and plant nutrients in the soil. Reduced water infiltration causes greater water runoff and erosion on graded soil, even though its slopes are usual much gentler than the grades left on ungraded land.

Grading spoil banks also spreads acid and toxic materials which usually wind up on or near the surface of strip-mined land. If generous amounts of acid-bearing shale and rock are present, grading can make the entire area unsuitable for plant life.

Chapman says the general exclusion of organic matter from highly-compacted soils makes graded spoils even less suitable tree habitats than ungraded spoil.

Chapman, who retired from the U. S. Forest Service in 1964 and came to SIU the following year, said that only professional technicians should determine the tree-bearing potential of such land.

Accidents Decline Again, But Injury Rate Climbs

The number of traffic accidents in the Quad-City area during September dropped slightly below that of the same month a year ago, but the number of persons injured jumped 33% above the September 1966 figure, a compilation of statistics showed today.

Quad-City authorities reported a total of 199 traffic accidents during September, compared to 207 in September last year. In last month's fewer accidents, however, 153 persons were injured, while only 113 persons were hurt in the 207 accidents of September, 1966.

Three persons died as the result of traffic accidents last month, compared to five in September last year. On the basis of these figures, the Quad-City traffic fatality rate for the first nine months of this year is 43% below that of last year. The three fatalities last month brought to 16 the total number of persons injured fatally in accidents this year, compared to a total of 28 persons fatally injured during the same period last year.

Highest of Year
The total of 199 accidents in September, along with the same number of accidents during May, is the highest number of mishaps for any single month so far this year. In addition to the 199 accidents in May, there were 179 in January, 143 in February, 177 in March, 181 in April, 191 in June, 183 in July and 171 in August.

September's 153 injuries is the second highest for any month this year, and almost equal to the highest month of the year, also in May with 154 injuries. Other injury reports this year were 89 in January, 57 in February, 90 in March, 114 in April, 130 in June, 130 in July and 115 in August.

The 199 accidents in September increased to 1524 the total number of mishaps during the nine months of this year.

This total is 208 less than the number of accidents for the same nine-month period in 1966. The figures thus indicate that the rate of accident injury is climbing despite a corresponding decline in the number of accidents. An increasing number of multiple-injury accidents has been noted in recent months—accidents in which from two to four or five persons are hurt in the same accident.

Roller Skating; Twirling Programs Begin This Week

Two Granite City park district programs with special appeal to grade school youngsters will get under way this week, with a large number of participants expected to take advantage of free instruction in baton twirling and weekly roller skating sessions.

Commencing tomorrow, third through ninth grade students may attend once-a-week roller skating sessions, to be held Tuesdays from 4 to 5:30 p.m. at Stoppokette's Roller Rink, 18th street and Cleveland Blvd.

The skating program will continue until March 1.

No admission will be charged participants, Park Supt. Harold E. Brown pointed out. Children needing to rent skates must pay a 25-cent rental fee. The program is open to youngsters residing within the park district boundaries.

Baton Twirling
Starting Wednesday, two classes in baton twirling will be conducted at the Park District Community Center, 822 Niedringhaus avenue, Brown announced. Separate sessions will be held from 3:45 to 4:30 p.m. and from 4:30 to 5:15 p.m.

Twirling classes are intended for beginners only who are between one and six. Those interested in joining the classes should report to the Community Center with their baton Wednesday, Brown said. Girls may wear slim jims to the weekly sessions, he added.

Sept. Building Permits, $86,430

Forty building permits were issued in Granite City during September, listing values totaling $87,350.

It was the lowest month since last December, when only nine permits had values of $87,350. August activity showed 36 permits with values of $420,342, while in September of last year, 53 permits had values of $1,718,683. That month included the $1½ million Grigsby junior high school.

September permits included four new homes with values of $45,000; five for additions to homes, $10,800; eight for garages and carports, $7600; 19 for remodeling and repairs, $8900; two for commercial purposes, $7400; and two for miscellaneous purposes, $7540. In addition, three permits were issued to raze structures at a cost of $283.

The last two permits of the month were issued to Leo Wilis, 3145 Wayne avenue, a room addition, $2000, and to Jimmie McCallum, 2316 Terminal avenue, remodel porches, $125.

Sentencing on two misdemeanor convictions against Shelby Wallace, 29, Granite City, under indictment for the murder of Terry J. Thweatt, 17, Granite City, was continued Friday afternoon by Magistrate William Johnson in Edwardsville pending the outcome of his murder trial.

Wallace, currently lodged in the Madison county jail without bond, was convicted more than a year ago for illegal possession of a hypodermic needle and for resisting arrest. Maximum penalties for each charge would be a year at the state prison farm at Vandalia and fines of $2000.

Wallace is scheduled for trial during a criminal setting starting next Monday in the murder of young Thweatt, son of Terry Thweatt Sr., early Oct. 1 outside the Full Moon tavern on Route 111.

His continuance on the misdemeanor cases was granted upon the request of public defender Robert Trone. William Kinder, assistant state's attorney, concurred.

Proprietor Questioned
Meanwhile the proprietor of the Full Moon tavern, Charles Adams, appeared before the Madison county liquor commission Thursday and was questioned about incidents leading to the fatal shooting of Thweatt.

Harold Landolt, county liquor commissioner, said no decision will be made about the tavern until he consults with State's Atty. Leon Scroggins.

Sheriff George Munoz has questioned Adams about allegedly unsanitary conditions at the tavern.

Mrs. Adams has alleged that before the shooting Wallace had threatened her, and state police were called to take Wallace into custody. But she said she was too afraid to sign a complaint against him, so state police later released Wallace.

He had threatened to burn down the tavern, according to her report.

Second Shooting of Night
Adams told the liquor commissioner that he was unable to clean the tavern because it had been closed the night of the Thweatt killing when an earlier shooting spree occurred inside the establishment.

Thweatt had gone to the tavern at about 2 a.m. but found it locked. He was near the building when Wallace allegedly opened fire on the establishment.

Wallace was brought from the county jail to the courthouse in the company of two sheriff's deputies. Extra precautions were used as authorities feared possible vengeance by friends of the deceased youth.

City Code Wednesday
At the request of City attorney Harry E. Hartman, the council called a special council session for this Wednesday at 7 p.m. to take final action on a revision of the Venice city code.

Hartman has been working on the updating of all city ordinances for the past two years. Most of them have been placed on first reading.

Expenses of $150 each were voted for John Crook and Algie Crawford, patrolmen on the Venice police department who have been selected to attend the annual meeting of the Illinois Police Benevolent Association in Peoria Oct. 15, 16 and 17.

The council granted a request of the Greater St. Louis Railroad Police Revolver club to use the Venice firing range in the basement of the city garage and granted a building permit to Ben Bankhead, 1183 Market street, to build a four-room frame residence at the rear of that address at a material cost of $2000.

To Upgrade Lighting
Allerton Patterson, chairman of the lighting committee, reported that he had been notified by Illinois Power Co. that work will start soon on upgrading the city's street lighting system. The work is expected to be completed by mid-November.

Mayor Lee referred to a recent announcement by the Venice school district of plans to establish a vocational education center in the Lincoln school at Venice and instructed the city clerk to send a letter to the school board complementing it on its decision.

Mayor Lee said the city and area has long been in need of such a training school.

Arrangements for the police committee to meet in early November to consider a call for bids on providing new police cars were made during the meeting.

Challenging Role for Labor Leadership Cited

"The future of labor will be measured by the knowledge that leaders of all levels of the union have attained," a business official said Thursday at SIU-SU. It was the first day of a three-day program attended by over 100 union officials and business agents.

Fred R. Speckmann, assistant directing business representative of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, making the leadoff speech at a seminar sponsored cooperatively by SIU and area unions, traced the history of unions in America and cited the need for better trained leaders in labor.

Speckmann said the march of unionism began with the formation of the American Federation of Labor. He said the advent of industrial production lines inspired the formation of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, whose eventual merger with the AFL-CIO, he noted, "today's union leadership must have a variety of personality traits covering many professions."

He said leaders must cope with problems never imagined in the early days of labor. By trade, Speckmann is a tool and die maker who rose in the ranks to his present position with the largest district in the IAM.

His talk followed a welcome address by Robert W. MacVicar, SIU vice-president for academic affairs. Robert Gibson, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois AFL-CIO, was master-of-ceremonies. Gibson is a former Granite Cityan.

Robert Ozzane, director of the School for Workers at the University of Wisconsin, gave the evening address following dinner in the University Center.

The seminar was a prelude to a Labor Institute which begins at the campus in November, also under joint sponsorship of SIU and area unions.

Harold Gibson of St. Louis, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, urged union officers and agents to work harder in the community for advancement of labor causes that ultimately will improve conditions in America.

Speaking on Friday, he said

Traffic Hazards Increase after Dark

"More than half of the traffic deaths occur" at night in spite of the fact that more miles are driven in the day-time," Raymond Christman, president of the Quad-City Safety Council, said today in calling attention to night traffic hazards.

"As the days grow shorter, the traffic hazards increase because of limited visibility at night. You have to see danger before you can avoid it," Christman warned. Longer hours of darkness coupled with slippery street and road conditions compound the traffic problems of every driver. To cope with these added night-time hazards the safety official asked all motorists to observe the following rules while driving at night:

You and Your Money

CHECK LIST FOR WAVES

by Robert J. Hildebrand

Assistant Trust Officer

Granite City Trust and Savings Bank

Today I'd like to give every wife a checklist about her family's personal finances, possibly one of the most important you'll ever see.

At the risk of sounding like your Dutch uncle, I'm going to say if you don't know the answers to these questions, find them.

First, is there a will? If so, exactly where?—a desk drawer, a file, a strong box? Be sure you know. Next, does your husband have a lawyer? See that you know his name and where to reach him. Is there an executor? Who? Who are the witnesses? How recent is the will? Any children born since it was drawn? These are important questions. "Oh, I don't know a thing about our financial affairs," I've heard many women brag. "End handles all that."

It's a nice sort of "cared-for" feeling. But expensive. Annually it costs important money for the wife to be uninformed on family finances.

Further, the women are often better managers of these matters. They have a natural instinct to protect the home—while the husband, bold and optimistic—feels he will live to 99.

Now, insurance policies? Do you know exactly where they are kept? How many do you have? With what company are they written? Who is your husband's life insurance agent? Where can he be reached? Almost everyone today carries some form of disability or hospitalization insurance. The little card that proves it is important; where is it? In your husband's wallet? Or in the miscellaneous drawer with the guarantees and unanswered letters? Know also where to put your hands on the policy itself.

What is your husband's social security number? Know where the card is kept, because some day, for both of you, it means a monthly check in the mail from Uncle Sam. But payment is not automatic. You must apply for it upon eligibility.

Next, do you know, right now where your marriage certificate is? Where the birth records are for each member of the military service and discharge records are? All are important proof of date of birth is generally required by insurance companies—also by the Social Security Board for settling claims.

Where is the deed to your house? The title to the car? Where are the tax receipts?

Now—let's look at the financial picture. At what bank or banks are all your accounts? Are they savings or checking accounts? If you need some advice, who at the bank should you go to? Who are your husband's creditors?—debtors? You should know their names and where all papers relative to such agreements are kept.

Do you have a safe deposit box? Where is the key?

Finally—where are your government bonds and stock certificates kept? All this information you should have.

"Some day I want to brief you on our financial affairs, Alice," is a remark every man makes to his wife. Make sure "some day" is soon. In fact—are you doing anything more important today?

Mayor Reports on GC Improvement Work

Fortcoming improvement projects—the widening and improvement of the south end of Nameoki road, the bond issued federal grant sewer and drainage program, Federal A-14 Route 151 and the Urban Development program—are topics of this month's report to Granite City Mayor, James J. Ramsey. The mayor said at his office today.

"The month of October should be a very good month to the citizens of our city. The bid letting is Oct. 10, by the state highway department, for the south section of Nameoki road from Washington avenue to Edwardsville road.

This work will consist of widening, bituminous concrete resurfacing, storm water drainage, traffic signals at the intersection of Nameoki road and Edwardsville road, sidewalks, curb and gutter, and street lighting the same as the north section. Completion date is Nov. 1, 1968.

"Our plans have been approved by the state Sanitary Water Board for sanitary sewers. We hope to have them approved by HUD within the next two weeks, so that bids may be let and construction started by the end of the month or the first part of next month.

"The plans should be approved by the city, this month for the paving of Route 151 from Niedeberg avenue north, matching the present four-lane section of the highway.

"Our city council should give our Urban Renewal program a lot of study and pass the necessary resolution this month, authorizing our application for a Federal grant of $1,166,786 to carry out the project.

"Our city council should give the Department of Public Works and Buildings, United States Department of Transportation, Federal Highway Administration, Bureau of Public Roads, C. H. Hoskin of the Army Depot, and Congressman Melvin Price to have Niedeberg avenue and 20th street designated as a Federal Aid Primary Route, with the recommendation that an underpass be constructed to accommodate four lanes of traffic.

"The Federal government's interest in better roads stems from its constitutional directive to establish post roads, regulate commerce among the states, provide for the national defense and protect the general welfare. Since the national interest in highways can best be fulfilled by fostering their improvement, federal aid grants to the states may be used for the building of new roads or the betterment of existing ones, including the cost of planning, engineering and right-of-way, as well as actual construction.

"While the federal aid grants go to the state highway departments, they benefit the local rural and urban governments as well. The federal aid systems include many secondary roads and city streets. A wide range of economic benefit will result this winter and next summer to our local trades Unions and cause more jobs, with our sewer and highway work going on.

"It is the responsibility of our administration to exercise good judgment in making decisions on matters that are so vital to the future economic growth and progress. It is also the responsibility of each and every alderman and citizen in our community to become more interested and active in the future economic growth and development of our community.

"We welcome all citizens to attend council meetings on the first, third, and fourth Mondays of each month to see your government in action."

MORE ABOUT Bids Next

The approval of the final plans by the railroad.

The highway department's petition also pointed out that "prolonged preliminary negotiations under circumstances beyond the control of the highway department" made it impossible to complete the project within the time allotted by the original ICC order, fixing this year's Oct. 30 deadline date.

Hartman told the Press-Record that the petition to the ICC for a hearing will be filed immediately, probably this week.

Principal delay in completion of engineering work and detailed plans on the underpass construction developed early this year when it was learned beyond the highway department that the three major rail lines that will use the top of the underpass structure had changed their track layout plans.

This required revision of plans by the state highway department and it was not until May 4 that the state employed consulting engineers to proceed with detailed planning.

Civil officials at Venice had received no notice of the changes in plans by the railroads and the subsequent delay that such a move would cause.

Delay Raises Cost
Mayor John E. Lee of Venice since he pointed out the delay in beginning construction of the underpass has increased the cost of that portion of the work to be done by the city of Venice by at least $60,000 in higher labor and material costs.

The Venice share of the underpass cost originally was estimated at $240,000, but now will be nearer $400,000 for the city work, the mayor said.

The railroads which will use the top of the structure are the New York Central, Norfolk & Western and Gulf, Mobile & Ohio. Venice officials also have been protesting further delay because of the serious traffic congestion caused on Broadway by trains now running on the three lines at grade.

New $100,000 Check
During the meeting Friday night, the McKinley Bridge ad-ministration turned over to City Treasurer Bernard Anderson a check for $100,000, representing the city's income for operating the bridge.

Mayor Lee said the money will be added to the City Revenue account which is being held in escrow in finance the city's share of the underpass construction cost. There is a balance of $362,000 in the fund.

Receipt of the $100,000 Friday night will bring this to $462,000, the mayor pointed out.

Will Top Half Million
In addition, the city general fund owes the revenue account $45,000 which it borrowed earlier this year. This is to be repaid from tax income soon and will put the escrow account over the $500,000 mark, the mayor stated.

The council also adopted a resolution providing that the city of $20,000 appropriation for the 1966-67 bridge budget as part of the McKinley bridge share of the underpass cost be placed in escrow with a similar amount from last year.

Under an ordinance passed two years ago, the bridge administration will pay $100,000 of the underpass cost at the rate of $20,000 per year. This amount was appropriated in 1965-66, again for the 1966-67 year, and again this year for 1967-68. This year's appropriation will bring the total in escrow to $80,000.

Since the underpass is not now expected to be completed until 1970, the bridge share of the overpass fund should reach its full $100,000 by the time the work is finished.

LBJ—Newspapers Irreplaceable

National Newspaper Week reminds us all of the historic value and vitality of our cherished freedom of the press.

And more than that, it focuses on the irreplaceable role which our newspapers have played, for two and a half centuries, in serving and safeguarding that freedom.

For our papers are more than just an expression of an unfettered press; they are the unsleeping sentinels of all freedoms.

Lack Government, People They are ready, simultaneous interpreters between the government and the people.

Their freedom to publish is our freedom to interpret—and both incur the responsibility and honor vital to the success of the democratic society that is our way of life.

In our nation, which spreads so far and wide across both continent and sea, newspapers have unparalleled power and significance.

Information, Action They are nerve centers of information and of action. They are educators, counselors, entertainers and community servants.

They carry forward the principles that gave our nation life—and they enrich that life by provoking and marshaling the thoughts, talents and energies of Americans everywhere toward the promise of growing fulfillment.

I know that all my fellow citizens join with me in traditional salute to their indispensable service.

NEWSMEN INDISPENSABLE TO RED CROSS PROGRAM

The indispensable roles of newspapers and newspapermen in the day-to-day operations of the American Red Cross are in our thoughts on the opening of National Newspaper Week, Oct. 8-14.

The generous support given us by the Press-Record has played an indispensable part in helping us reach the public with information about the things we can do for them and the help we need from them to perform our services.

A member of your staff has been the publicity chairman of the chapter for many years. He has always been very cooperative, giving the best of coverage to all phases of Red Cross.

Many millions of Americans have received help from the Red Cross—more than possible in any other way. It is the efforts of other millions who answered newspaper appeals for volunteer service.

Newspapers deserve a large part of the credit for lives saved by the blood donors and first-aid and water and food students they helped recruit.

Newspapers and newspapermen have played an important part in the development of the American Red Cross from its founding in 1881.

A committee of Washington newspapermen helped Clara Barton in getting the organization started. They were Walter Phillips, manager of the United Press; Richard J. Hinton, editor of papers in Washington and San Francisco; and Peter DeGraw and George Kennan, respectively day editor and assistant manager of the Associated Press. Kennan later became vice-president of the Red Cross and was active in its leadership for two decades.

The influence of newspapermen in Red Cross during this century has been notable. In 1914, a committee of three formulated the plan for the Red Cross Office of Public Information—John Callan O'Laughlin, chief of the Washington bureau of the Chicago Tribune; Charles T. Thompson, editor of the Washington Post; and a representative of the Washington bureau of the Associated Press; and Dudley Harmon of the Washington bureau of the New York Sun.

In 1915, the Red Cross sent William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kan., Gazette, to Europe to observe and report on the work of the Red Cross on the war front. He returned to lecture and write articles on what he saw. At the same time, John H. Finley, later editor of the New York Times, was American Red Cross commissioner to Palestine.

Newspapers continued to support the Red Cross and its peacekeeping programs in the between-war era. When the nation was deeply stricken by drought and depression in the early 1930s, comments about the organization's work often appeared in Will Rogers' daily column.

First Contract of New Industrial

Park Will Benefit Madison Taxpayers

The foresight and perseverance of Madison city officials in their efforts to develop an industrial park have brought the first major breakthrough—scheduled construction of a $1 million Caine Steel Co. lithographing and shearing service center, warehouse and office building.

Although success in utilizing the city's East Madison tract did not come immediately, it has now been borne out that the proximity to both railroad service and a steel supply was as significant as initially believed. The city's bridge financial reserve, enabling it to provide the land and building on a lease basis, also was a decisive factor.

Mayor Maerz and the other elected officials have succeeded in assuring the municipality of a regular income from the industrial park. This is important to each taxpayer because the bridge toll previously ended and the population-tax base ratio is comparatively unfavorable for the financing of city, school and other services. Job opportunities also will be expanded. Quad-Cityans with the city well in its current negotiations to make similar use of the remainder of the bridge surplus.

Levee Board Cautious Open to Public

With the East Side Levee & Sanitary District board opening its pre-meeting caucus last week at the instigation of the Press-Record, adherence to the letter and spirit of state open meeting laws is virtually complete in this region.

As is being brought out in the current observance of National Newspaper Week, the lifeblood of the democratic process is full and free knowledge of governmental issues, not only after a decision is made but during the period in which matters are being discussed by officials.

The Press-Record considers it a fundamental duty to help keep the public informed regarding local taxing agencies. We also urge the board to personally attend, if possible, the meetings of their public bodies; the weekly schedule is listed on this page every Monday under the heading of "Grassroots Government."

Praise from a friend is flattering, but criticism from an enemy sometimes is more helpful.

Sound Basis Now for Rapid Attainment of Cleaner Air

Notwithstanding a continuing verbal barrage from St. Louis, Granite City aldermen and citizens are genuinely for swift attainment of air purity objectives. In fact, local officials, residents and employees have much greater interest than anyone else in the quality of air here, since it is they who breathe it.

The original Granite City air pollution control ordinance, while regarded even at the time as only a first step, preceded similar action by many other cities. Now Granite City has adopted the stricter Illinois air pollution control rules and regulations, as amended on March 30, 1967, and is in a position to utilize state test facilities and engineering as a supplement to the work of its municipal air control staff. As the state regulations are further broadened and strengthened, the same steps should be and undoubtedly will be taken by the city council.

Public hearings probably could have further clarified the progress that has been made. However, as was pointed out at last week's aldermanic meeting, the extensive discussion by officials and laymen at council sessions, presenting all viewpoints, in effect constituted a public hearing.

Certainly a hearing in July might have avoided the episode in which an altered document was used to stampede the council into temporarily approving an unenforceable control plan. We urge the City Air Pollution Board members to never again push for instant aldermanic action on unfamiliar proposals. As Alderman Farney said before being outvoted at the meeting where the deception occurred, they should have to vote on legislation without knowing its contents.

It would be grossly unfair to equate support of sound and effective controls with lack of dedication to "clean air." How clean and pure would be the motives of those who might seek other goals in the guise of pollution control? What kind of future would the Quad-City have if differing laws gave unfair advantages to Pittsburgh or Chicago firms, or if arbitrary air zones were used to place this community off-limits to all new or expanded plants?

It's based not only on the action role played by newspapers throughout American history, but also on the accomplishments of today's newspapers in getting things done for their communities—for education, public health and safety, religion, the arts, sports, recreation, youth programs, voter registration and get-out-the-vote and every worthwhile cause—and, yes, for the economic prosperity of their communities with their substantial payrolls and their proven power to stimulate sales and self merchandising.

Specialized Services Center Enables Handicapped to Lead Useful Lives

Still in its first year of operation, the Quad-City Specialized Services Center has filled an obvious need by training dozens of physically and mentally handicapped people to gainfully occupy their time by manufacturing or repairing salable products.

Additional training courses and work contracts will be needed to fully round out the program and move it closer to self-supporting status. Many prospective trainees cannot yet be accommodated.

But the work of President Chris Kacaleff and other members of the advisory council has been valuable in making Specialized Services a reality here and paving the way for future expansion.

With manpower shortages making it increasingly difficult to get many essential tasks done, the center already is being recognized as it can be helpful to local businesses and residents. More important, it is enabling many who were previously doomed to inactivity to lead productive lives.

Progress Toward Modern Public Schools Achieved During 19th Century

(Third of seven reports by U. S. Office of Education tracing the history of education in America.)

The United States had 800 newspapers in 1830 and 1400 in 1840.

Newspapers and newspapermen have played an important part in the development of the American Red Cross from its founding in 1881.

A committee of Washington newspapermen helped Clara Barton in getting the organization started. They were Walter Phillips, manager of the United Press; Richard J. Hinton, editor of papers in Washington and San Francisco; and Peter DeGraw and George Kennan, respectively day editor and assistant manager of the Associated Press. Kennan later became vice-president of the Red Cross and was active in its leadership for two decades.

The influence of newspapermen in Red Cross during this century has been notable. In 1914, a committee of three formulated the plan for the Red Cross Office of Public Information—John Callan O'Laughlin, chief of the Washington bureau of the Chicago Tribune; Charles T. Thompson, editor of the Washington Post; and a representative of the Washington bureau of the Associated Press; and Dudley Harmon of the Washington bureau of the New York Sun.

In 1915, the Red Cross sent William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kan., Gazette, to Europe to observe and report on the work of the Red Cross on the war front. He returned to lecture and write articles on what he saw. At the same time, John H. Finley, later editor of the New York Times, was American Red Cross commissioner to Palestine.

Newspapers continued to support the Red Cross and its peacekeeping programs in the between-war era. When the nation was deeply stricken by drought and depression in the early 1930s, comments about the organization's work often appeared in Will Rogers' daily column.

The year Johnny Lowell was eight, his father decided the boy was big enough to help on the farm. So Johnny switched from going to summer school with the younger children to attending classes in the winter.

His teacher, Mr. Bodkins, made Johnny responsible for lighting the school stove. He was supposed to have the fire going half an hour before school started at 8 a.m., but he had to do his home-chores first, and then walk a mile-and-a-half over roads that were usually covered with snow.

Since Johnny's school—a small wooden building at the district crossroads—had no woodshed, the fire was often covered with snow, too. In the morning, the room was both cold and smoky.

By afternoon, the unventilated classroom was warm almost beyond endurance. The heat of the stove got higher and higher as the sweating students shed their sweaters and added them to the pile of coats.

Mr. Bodkins received $33 for the three-month term... $12 more than a woman teacher would have earned.

He added geography to the standard curriculum of reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic. In place of the worn paper maps, Mr. Bodkins had a globe, the first any of the students had ever seen.

Because Johnny went to school in a progressive state with an unusually high school tax—$1.25 per person per year—Mr. Bodkins had the funds to buy some other advanced equipment: steel pen points instead of quills, individual desks instead of benches, and a new slate blackboard.

Johnny finished eighth grade, and eventually he owned the general store in which he had been a clerk.

Common as the light and air because its blessings are open to all.

Mann called education "the balance wheel of the social machinery." It does better than any other thing to prevent hostility toward the rich; it prevents being poor.

The influence of such public schooling was strengthened in 1837 with the establishment of the National Education Association.

Apart from signaling the development of American teaching as a profession, the NEA also gave school personnel the strength of unity in pressing for better educational practices.

Compulsory Tax Support By 1870, the views of these and other advocates of public schooling were beginning to win out. Every state had eliminated tuition fees for its public schools; the principle of compulsory tax support for public education had gained widespread acceptance.

Land Grant Act The Morrill Land Grant Act of 1862—signed by President Lincoln two years after his predecessor's public it as unconstitutional—donated six million acres of federal land to the states for the establishment of colleges to teach the agricultural and mechanical arts.

The political significance of the Land Grant Act was that the voters, through their elected representatives in Congress, asserted the right and necessity of the central government to support state and local efforts on behalf of education.

Some of the theories they advanced still influence our classrooms; many of our current educational practices are the result of experiments first conducted in Chicago.

In a volunteer capacity as an advisor to Red Cross management in national headquarters, he is author of "The Compact History of the Red Cross," published in 1939 by Hawthorn Books.

Along with gowns worn truth, therefore, received high priority in the framing of the Constitution when 20 years later the Colonists fought for and won their freedom from Britain.

"Growth" Business In 1800, only 25 newspapers were being published in the 13 colonies and only 24 were dailies.

Today there are nearly 10,000 newspapers in the United States with an all-time high circulation of 61,397,232 daily and 26,888,320 weekly.

Circulation of daily newspapers increased by a million a day last year; weekly circulation increased 800,000.

In fact, the newspaper business, exceeding by 21.3 to 207.2 the rapid growth of the U. S. economy as a whole since world war II, based on the Gross National Product index.

Newspapers Are All Sizes Eighty percent of the country's newspapers today are weeklies published in rural, small city and suburban communities. Circulation of the median-size weekly is about 3000.

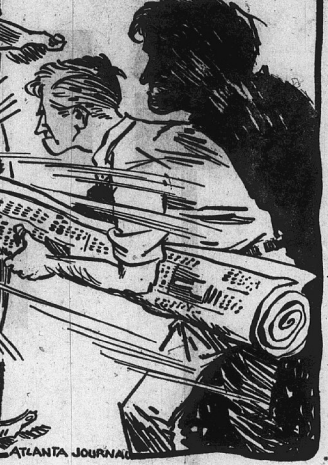

Three-fourths of the 1754 daily newspapers are published in cities of less than 25,000 with the median-size daily having a circulation of about 10,000.

Less than four percent of the nation's newspapers are metropolitan dailies. Newspapers, wherever published, are close to the people. They are "grassroots" mediums serving the largest cities and the smallest hamlets.

Enjoying Good Health Despite the widely publicized deaths of a few metropolitan newspapers, the newspaper business has never been in better health.

There are more newspapers being read today than ever before. Readers spent more than $2 billion last year to buy and read daily newspapers and about $88 million for weekly newspapers.

Newspapers have continued their growth, despite the entry of two major competitors in the advertising field in the past 35 years, radio and television.

NEWSPAPERS GET THINGS DONE

Newspapers Continue as Healthy 'Growth' Business

This is National Newspaper Week (Oct. 8-14) and a good time to remind readers that "Newspapers Get Things Done."

This is the theme of Newspaper Week.

It's based not only on the action role played by newspapers throughout American history, but also on the accomplishments of today's newspapers in getting things done for their communities—for education, public health and safety, religion, the arts, sports, recreation, youth programs, voter registration and get-out-the-vote and every worthwhile cause—and, yes, for the economic prosperity of their communities with their substantial payrolls and their proven power to stimulate sales and self merchandising.

Early Freedom Fighters The first newspapers in America, late in the 17th century, began by protesting against colonial government abuses of office and unendurable restrictions of cherished freedoms.

Many newspapers were arbitrarily suppressed, closely censored, or their publication was prohibited.

But in 1734, John Peter Zenger, a printer-publisher arrested for "seditious libel" and imprisoned for printing attacks against the colonial administration, won acquittal in a celebrated trial.

The trial established truth as a defense in cases of libel and marked the beginning of freedom of the press in America.

Until this time, criticism of colonial government officials, even though true, was "libelous" and punishable by imprisonment.

Press Guards Freedoms "No nation or modern state," wrote Zenger in 1735, "ever lost the liberty of freely speaking, writing or publishing their sentiments, but forthright their liberty in general and became slaves."

Twenty-five years later, Thomas Jefferson wrote the Marquis de LaFayette, "The only security of all is in a free press. The force of public opinion is the only power when permitted freely to be expressed. The agitation it produces must be submitted to. It is necessary to keep the waters pure."

Freedom of speech and freedom of the press to publish the many topflight newspaper cartoonists, members of the National Cartoonists Society, generally donated special drawings every year for use in Red Cross fund campaigns.

Some top newspapermen who have served as volunteers on the Red Cross, including W. Earl Hall, editor, now editor emeritus, of the Mason City, Ia., Globe-Gazette; and Neil Dalton, then public relations director of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times.

George W. Healy Jr., executive editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, States, and Item and former president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, is among many newspapermen who have served prominently with Red Cross.

Top newspapermen have served over the years as vice-indicator of newspaper business volume, was up 7 percent last year.

Employment continued upward, and outlays for new plants and equipment in the U. S. and Canada by newspapers exceeded $46 million.

Weeklies spent another $50 million. In the past decade, they have spent more than $1 billion for new plants and modernization.

These expenditures represent not alone replacement of obsolete and aging equipment and plants, but point to the expanding technological revolution in newspaper publishing which has seen such recent developments as computers for setting type, automatic mailing rooms, high-speed transmission of wire news, photo-composition of type and printing by the offset method.

Goals are to not only cut cost of production but increase the overall quality and appearance of the product.

Growth Through Service While newspapers are in the throes of an accelerating technological revolution they are also facing an information revolution.

Editors of most newspapers are responding with more news more attractively presented, cutting through the clutter of complexities to orient readers to their world and help them understand the bewildering array of events that pour in upon them as a result of today's "information explosion."

Between the news of far-away events of this world and outer space and that of the suburbs and rural communities where millions of people live, there is an "information gap" which weekly and small newspapers try to bridge.

They are as much or more a part of the fabric of American freedom as their big-city brothers because their news patterns concern close-to-home interests.

Proceedings of local government, projects of local clubs, victories and defeats of hometown athletic teams, school and church activities, local boy or girl makes good, births, deaths, engagements, weddings and on and on.

This is the hometown newspaper's function, its responsibility and its challenge.

Newspapers are more important today than ever in people's lives, and better newspapers are making a better world.

55% of All County Public Aid Funds Paid for ADC

Fifty-five percent of all public aid funds paid to Madison county recipients during July went to persons on the rolls of the Aid to Dependent Children program, according to figures released Friday by the Illinois Department of Public Aid at Springfield.

Payments to Madison county residents under all five major aid programs amounted to $429,135 during the month of July, according to Harold O. Swank, public aid director. This amount went to 8202 recipients, a slight decrease below the $238 amount on the rolls in June. The total payment, however, is a slight increase over the $428,072 paid out in June.

A total of $336 Aid to Dependent Children recipients received $237,118 of the total amount of Madison county public aid, the report shows. This left 45% of the total payment to be divided among the four other major aid programs.

Of the balance, $88,751 went to 1411 persons on the old age assistance rolls. A total of 748 recipients of general assistance received $21,313.

Blind pension payments amounted to $2886 for 34 persons on the rolls, while 673 persons received $78,247 in disability pensions.

Total payments to Madison county recipients during July showed increases in all but one of the five programs. The July payment for aid to dependent children funds amounted to $237,118 was up only slightly over the June payment of $236,819, while old age assistance payments of $88,753 in July compared with $84,006 in June. The amount of $2886 paid in blind pensions during July was up over the $2402 paid in June, and the $78,247 paid in disability pensions in July was an increase over the $77,759 paid in June.

Relief Cost Down

Only program in which total payments decreased was for general assistance. Payments in July totaled $21,313 for 748 clients, compared to total payment of $24,996 for 872 clients in June.

For the state as a whole, however, the general assistance rolls increased along with disability pension and old age assistance recipients, while there was a decrease in the number of persons on blind assistance and aid to dependent children rolls.

Swank reported state-wide expenditures for July were $27,981,193, up more than $1 million over the $26,836,531 paid in June, and up more than $3 million over the July 1966 payment of $24,806,359.

Other Payments

Of the balance, $88,751 went to 1411 persons on the old age assistance rolls. A total of 748 recipients of general assistance received $21,313.

Plan Tests to Detect Glaucoma Infection

A series of three free screening programs for detection of glaucoma, leading cause of preventable blindness attacks, is planned by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, it was announced this week. Glaucoma, the society said, attacks two percent of the adult population over the age of 35 years.

The screenings will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. every Wednesday at the Northwestern University Eye Clinic in Chicago; the first and third Tuesday of each month from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the Outpatient Department of the Hinsdale Sanatorium and Hospital at Hinsdale, and the first and third Friday of each month from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Outpatient department of the Evanston Hospital, Evanston, Ill.

Glaucoma, the society pointed out, is a medical term for a variety of disorders which have in common an excess of pressure within the eye, causing gradual loss of vision unless it is detected and treated. Determining the pressure within the eye is a simple procedure. A drop of anesthetic is placed on the eye for a few seconds and a small instrument known as a tonometer, is placed on the eye briefly so that pressure may be measured. The entire process is absolutely painless and the anesthetic in no way affects one's vision.

One of the great dangers of glaucoma is that in its most chronic form (chronic simple glaucoma) there are generally no symptoms during the first few years. A person may be losing vision from glaucoma and be totally unaware of it. These are the people for whom the society is searching in its screening programs.

Census to Determine School Enrollment Set

A special census will be conducted here to help determine the number of persons under 35 years old who are enrolled in schools or colleges. The U. S. Census Bureau will conduct the survey starting next week.

Questions on the subject are asked each year to update national figures on public, private and special school enrollment, full and part-time college attendance, the number of high school graduates and dropouts and the last year of regular schooling for non-high school graduates.

The survey last year showed that more than 55 million persons were enrolled in school or college, about 20% of the civilian population. It represented an increase of 19% over 1960 enrollments.

State Selling Seedling Trees To Provide Wildlife Cover

The Forestry Division of the Illinois Department of Conservation is now accepting orders for tree seedlings and wildlife shrubs.

White, red, Scotch, jack, shortleaf and loblolly pines and bald cypress are among the conifers that may be purchased from state nurseries. Soft maple, pin, red and white oaks, red gum, ash, black alder, tulip, poplar, cottonwood, river birch, black locust, sycamore and black walnut are also available.

Two varieties of wildlife packets, one for Northern Illinois and the other for the southern part of the state, each containing a total of 500 trees and wildlife shrubs, are again being sold. The packets are for landowners who want to provide cover for wildlife on pond banks, in fence corners, on hill sides and other small areas that cannot be farmed.

White pine, red pine, silky dogwood, hush honeysuckle, autumn olive and northern white pine from a South Carolina seed source and loblolly pine are substituted for white and red pine in the southern packet because these trees are more adaptable to soils and growing conditions in Southern Illinois. Within the last few years an increasing number of hardwoods have been planted by Illinois landowners. Black walnut is the most popular and the tree nurseries have been unable to raise enough seedlings to keep up with the demand for this tree. Both walnut seeds and seedlings are being sold. The average price of $10 per thousand walnut seedlings has been raised to $15 this year.

Last year was an exceptional year for oak seedling production at the state nurseries and a surplus was anticipated. But the entire stock of oak waste and orders were being refused long before the spring tree planting season began.

Seedlings from state tree nurseries are for planting on rural land for soil erosion control, Christmas tree production, timber stand improvement, wildlife cover, field shelterbelts, ornamental plantings and shrubs for windbreaks around homes.

Order blanks and price lists may be obtained from many nurseries, conservation officers, the Chicago office of the Illinois Department of Conservation, 180 N. La Salle street, 60601 or the Springfield office, 113 State Office Bldg., Springfield, Ill. 62762.

immediate action should be taken by the township authority, Nick Vassileff.

Will See Vassileff: Harry Briggs, Namekoi township supervisor, said he was not aware that the Maryville school annexation had yet been questioned, but Policy assured him that it had. Briggs said he would discuss the matter immediately with Vassileff.

Ten residents of the Arlington Heights area were present to protest a rezoning request for construction of four apartment units in the area by James Green, Granite City contractor.

The group spokesman told the board that an on-site hearing on the zoning change had been held and the matter is now with the Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals.

LT. Col. Joseph F. Schall, 66 Karen drive, said a series of foundations already has been installed on four lots involved in the zoning request, despite the fact that rezoning has not yet been granted.

He said petitions opposing the rezoning for multiple dwellings have been filed with the county and that the group will take its protests before the County Board of Supervisors if necessary.

Col. Schall told the board that "we feel pretty strongly about this. We don't want to interfere with another man's business, but we feel that as property owners we have invested heavily in the area and would like to protect that investment."

Fear Absentee Landlords: He said area residents fear that a change in the zoning would lead to "absentee landlords" who would build property in the area for "maximum profit and minimum maintenance," possibly leading eventually to a deterioration and overpopulation of the area.

The town board also discussed payment of $457 to the village of Ponton Beach, representing the village share of 1965 road and bridge taxes collected by the township.

Ponton Beach notified the township that while it received $510 as its share of the township road and bridge fund tax for the 1966 tax year, it never had received a payment for the 1965 tax year.

At the suggestion of Town Clerk John Karlechick, the township will seek written authorization from the county treasurer's office to make the payment. Briggs said investigation showed Ponton Beach had

Depot Plant May be Held Up by Pentagon

The Defense Department freeze on non-essential military spending may have an effect on the planned automatic date processing plant at the Granite City Army Depot, it was reported today.

Col. Charles E. Hoenk III, depot commander, said that no official word has been received from Washington, but that construction of the $120,000 plant may be held up.

The plant, designed to streamline depot accounting and other record keeping, is now in the engineering study stage and no bids have been let to contractors.

Home Notes

Madison County Home Adviser,

Be a breakfast eater

Although breakfast is considered the most vital meal of the day, it is the meal most often neglected. And nutrition authorities are concerned about the large number of Americans who go off to work, school or even play with an inadequate breakfast or with no breakfast at all.

University of Illinois extension nutrition specialist Geraldine Acker suggests that the homemaker make it a point to see that everyone under her roof has a good breakfast each morning.

Too many people skip this important meal because they "haven't time." Miss Acker points out that a breakfast of juice or fruit, cereal, milk and toast can be prepared in about a minute and eaten in about five.

Eating an adequate breakfast pays off. Research has shown that children who eat breakfast do better in school, perform physical tasks better and are less irritable and emotionally unstable than children who do not eat breakfast.

Research has also shown factory workers to be more alert, efficient and fatigue-resistant when they have eaten breakfast than when they have not.

Most of the responsibility for instilling good food habits in a family rests with the homemaker. And she can start by making breakfast as varied, enjoyable and exciting as any other meal.

Still Room at Dirksen Address to Chamber

With a crowd of more than 400 now likely for the annual Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce banquet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Granite City high school cafeteria, there is still plenty of room. More reservations are being accepted by telephone at the Chamber Office, TE 6-6608.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, U. S. Senate minority leader, will speak at the dinner. He also is scheduled to hold a press conference at 5 p.m. Thursday at the Granite City Steel Co. office building.

Madison Man Involved In E. St. Louis Mishap

Mike Skirsky, 807 Grand avenue, Madison, was involved in a three-car chain-reaction accident at 4:15 p.m. Friday in East St. Louis where two persons were injured.

In fair condition in East St. Louis hospitals were Mrs. Odea Davis, 49, of East St. Louis, driver of one of the cars, and Mrs. Marie Greer, 68, of Ashley, a passenger in an auto driven by John S. Greer which collided with another driven by George Cross of East St. Louis.

Arrest at Spotlight

Duffy Valerius, Collinsville, was arrested at 11 p.m. Friday on a charge of disobeying a spotlight at 16th street and Madison avenue.

of approaches — developing workable standards that may initially appear to be insufficient, or proceeding in a manner that attracts public support but is unenforceable.

Noting that the council temporarily had approved certain standards proposed by the U. S. Public Health Service, Klassen said, "We don't think there is any foundation for them."

He noted that Bedford Park, Ill., has been certified for local enforcement and said other cities will be as they obtain adequate technical staffs. He said Granite City now lacks an adequate staff.

Klassen noted that "there is a real air problem in Granite City, and it's going to be dealt with. He said the local ordinance temporarily on the books was too general in that it included pollution that could not be traced to its source.

William F. Hoelscher, Tri-Cities Manufacturers Association manager, discussed the history of air pollution control here.

Klassen thanked Mrs. Francis and Mrs. Carole Lantier, also co-chairmen of the citizens' group, for their interest and added, "We feel that we have cleaned up a lot of air but also feel that there is much more to be done."

Mrs. Sally Segar of a Chouteau township citizens' organization complained of open burning at a dump in that township. She was asked to call a representative of the state board the next time such a fire is seen.

Auto Hits Stop Sign

An auto driven by Joseph Wallace Jr., 1117 Bissell street, knocked down a stop sign at Klein and Brown streets Sunday afternoon and went into the yard at the home of Louis Scurro on the corner, police reported. They said the yard was rutted, but there was only minor damage to the auto.

Area Crashes

E. Dodd, 2033 Illinois avenue, police were told.

A passenger in the southbound auto of Clarence Lahe, 3316 Johnson road, Opel Lehr, 52, of that address suffered right thumb and left index finger injuries at 2:45 p.m. Friday in a collision at 25th and State streets.

There was damage to the front of their car and the right side of the westbound auto of Ann Knopka, 3157 Davis avenue.

An accident on McKinley Bridge in Venice at 3 p.m. Friday resulted in the injury of a passenger in one of the cars. Horace Brown, 48, St. Louis, suffered two chipped teeth.

Eastbound autos of Howard McGruder, 19, St. Louis, and Ray H. Cox, 42, St. Louis, collided, McGruder said his car not be lowered," he said, "but they will not be higher." The principal reason he gave was the increase in the budget of the Granite City school district.

State Revenue Director Barton said. The State Revenue Department has indicated that a multiplier will be applied in Madison county unless there is a $40 million increase in assessments throughout the county, Barton said.

However, he noted that Nanticoke and Chouteau township assessments are below par and that the Wood River township tax assessor is reducing assessments, and the $40 million increase will not be met.

Without the cut in the assessments, Granite City home owners would be penalized even more with the multiplier, Barton explained.

He said there was a $3 million increase in the Granite City Steel Co. assessment and that the total assessment values in Granite City will be higher with an increase at Air Products Co. and with the new apartment buildings here, but they could not offset assessment cuts in other areas of the county.

Optimists Hear UF Talk by Milonski

Guest speaker at the Granite City Optimist Club luncheon meeting Thursday afternoon was Y.M.C.A. was Mitchell B. Milonski, campaign chairman of the Tri-Cities Area United Fund drive, who showed Optimists the new campaign film—"The Part You Play," featuring television-movie actor E. G. Marshall.

Explaining the needs of local agencies whose operations are financed either wholly or partially from United Fund contributions, Milonski said, "Achieving this year's $384,000 goal requires all of us to play our part." He commended many club members who are serving in various volunteer capacities in the drive which officially got underway last week.

The film presented by the campaign chairman, features a surprise ending, showing a visit to a United Fund agency by Joseph Biernie, president of the Communication Workers of America, AFL-CIO, who also serves as president of the United Community Funds Council of America.

Milonski was introduced by H. D. Karandjett, program chairman. Optimists also welcomed as a special guest, Vernon Garfield, an Illinois Department of Public Aid official, who is working for a two-month period with the United Fund of Greater East St. Louis, under the "loaned executive" plan. He was the guest of John Solenberg, executive director of the Tri-Cities United Fund.

Dr. Raymond E. Troyer, Optimist president, conducted a brief business session. Induction ceremonies were held for Attorney Leo H. Konzen and Alex Duccini, with Gene H. Sternberg, Optimist International president-elect, officiating. Twenty-five members attended.
